FRIDAY NIGHT LIVE!

VOICEOVER ACTING WORKSHOP

with THERESA BUCHHEISTER,
professional NYC VOICEOVER DIRECTOR & ACTRESS

DECEMBER 16, 2016
6:00 - 9:00 PM

There is a world where you can become ANYTHING! A British doctor. An 85-year-old crook. A 5-year-old acrobat. A purple flying magical squirrel. This is the world of VoiceOver acting where you hold the potential to be anything you can imagine! In six different arenas, you can transform into these characters through cartoons, live-action movies, TV, audiobooks, radio programs and commercials.

In this exciting 3-hour class, VoiceOver actor and director, Theresa Buchheister, will talk to you about the similarities and differences of these 6 arenas and teach you how to create different characters through a mastery of vocal control. Then YOU get to get on your feet and give it a go. See what VoiceOver work is all about!

Theresa Buchheister (her Pokemon character, Aliana, is pictured above with Team Flare) is a director, performer and writer from Manhattan and the Artistic Director of Title:Point, an experimental theatre company in Brooklyn. In the world of VoiceOver, she has worked in radio, film, tv, audio books, cartoons, video games and commercials. Theresa has worked as a director on Pokemon, The Winx Club, World of Winx, Robocar Poli, Bears!, Rolando Locomotov, as well as live action and animated films. She has directed hundreds of audiobooks, including How Music Works by David Byrne. In addition to directing, she has voiced characters on Pokemon, The Winx Club, World of Winx, as well as audiobooks and a sweet Christmas book, The Coal Elf.

Don't miss out on this exciting opportunity to catch a glimpse of the unique field of VoiceOver acting!
